

Late from Oregon.
Mr. T. B. Wall, who has just returned from Oregon, in a letter to the Rev. J. B. Wall, says:
Of the emigration to Oregon, last year, between one thousand and twelve hundred souls, accompanied by two hundred and fourteen wagons, under the pilotage of one Stephen Meek, an old mountaineer, struck out in a southwesterly direction from Snake River, about twelve miles below Fort Boise, to make a cut off to the Dalls, Meek telling them that he would take them a route one hundred and fifty miles nearer, and a much preferable route to that by the way of the Grande Ronde. Leaving Malheur river, which they travelled over about twenty miles, they crossed over in a southwesterly direction to the Blue Mountains, over a country broken up into deep and precipitous ravines, often barely admitting a single wagon to pass between the ledges of stone. After much difficulty, and with the loss of many cattle, they crossed the Blue Mountains. Here Meek got completely lost, and bore away too far south, entirely heading John Day's River, which he was to have descended to the Columbia. They travelled in a southerly direction, until they came to the head waters of the Shutes river. Finding himself here in a barren and sterile part of the country, which, in many places, scarcely afforded grass and water sufficient to sustain the lives of the teams, he, after consulting privately with a few individuals, determined to abandon the idea of making the Dalls, and to attempt to make the best of his way into the Wallamet Valley, across the Cascade Mountains. No sooner did he determine this, than he boldly struck out from the Shutes, trusting to blind fortune or good luck to lead him and the company into the valley. He shaped his course nearly south and travelled in this direction for several days. The company under him in much distress, now began to suspect that all was not right—knowing the course they were going to be nearly opposite to that of their destination. Yet Meek insisted that in a few days they would reach the Dalls, and continued leading them in the same course, until they came to Klamet Lake, between the blue and Cascade Mountains, in which the Klamet is said to have its source. This lake completely thwarted him in his attempt to get into the valley, and now no alternative was left but that of retracing steps. So the company were again compelled to take up their line of march for the Dalls, whither they supposed they had been journeying. They had now been out from Boise over thirty days and many were, by this time, nearly out of provisions, for the company had only about one month's stores when they left that place. Some of them, seeing their desperate situation, became much exasperated at Meek for his conduct, and would have made him pay the penalty with his life, had not others, who were guided by the counselings of cooler judgment, protected him from the hand of violence. By the time they again reached Shutes river which they crossed some distance below their former point, the most of the company were entirely out of provisions, and their only dependence for sustenance was on their cattle, which were now very poor and unfit for beef. There were now over two hundred persons confined to their wagons, with what they termed the "camp fever," supposed to have been produced by the beef they had to eat, together with their sufferings for water.
They descended Shutes river to within sixty or seventy miles of its mouth; here they crossed and despatched a company on horseback for the Dalls, who reached the Mission, and returned in a few days with provisions and assistance to the company, which reached the Dalls in about ten days afterwards. A company would have been despatched sooner could they have crossed the river, but there was no possibility of making an earlier crossing.
The company were frequently without water forty-eight hours while descending the river; for, although they were most of the time within a mile or two of its brink, it was impossible to get water—whenever they would approach it, they would see it wending its way at the bottom of a dark, frightful chasm, from 1,000 to 1,500 feet deep, walled up with basaltic rock, and sometimes, for fifty or sixty miles it was not possible for man to descend to it. Of the number who were sick, between sixty and seventy died—long and painful will be the remembrance of Meek's ill-fated "cut off."
The emigration to Oregon the current year, I think, will number about two hundred souls—being about one half as large as it was last year; and that to California will, perhaps amount to four hundred and fifty or five hundred souls. This year's emigration will not bear a very favorable comparison with that to California, as far as I am able to judge, in point of respectability and talent.

Funeral Ceremonies.—The Paris correspondent of the Boston Atlas gives the following curious particulars of the ceremonies observed on the Pope's death:
"As soon as his death was announced to Riaro Sforza, the Cardinal Camerlengo, that functionary proceeded to the Quirinal palace, and raising the white veil with which the face of the deceased Pontiff had been covered, struck three blows on the forehead with a small silver mallet, calling him by his christain name after each blow. He then announced from the window, 'Il Papa e realmente morto,' (the Pope is really dead), and broke the fisherman's ring and great seal of state, while the tolling of the great bell at the capitol was echoed until night by all the church bells in the city. The body was then embalmed, clothed in the Pontifical robes of the State, and taken to the Sistine Chapel, on a litter borne by white mules, escorted by a long procession of soldiers, priests, choristers, and monks carrying lighted candles. The next evening his heart was carried in a vase to the church of St. Vincent, and yesterday the body was placed in the chapel of St. Sacrament, in the basilica of St. Peter. The funeral ceremonies, called Novem Dials, have commenced, and at the expiration of the nine days the corpse will be placed in a coffin and carried on a bier to the entrance of the vaults, where he will remain until the death of another Pope furnishes an occupant for the bier, and consigns him to his last resting place."
The Prairie Home.—"If I were asked to name the charm that binds the prairie settler to his home, I would say it is not merely the fine climate, the beautiful lands, the diversity of the natural world, nor the majesty of stream or plain, nor even the beautiful seasons. It is the combined effect of all these, giving the widest freedom of thought and action, and inspiring each individual with the consciousness that his acts, be they few or many, tell upon the development of energies that have slumbered for ages, but are now fast growing into gigantic stature before the world. Nor is it necessary, in order to constitute a part of that which prompts us to action, that these ideas should have a distinct existence in the mind. Men often act from motives that are buried beneath the ocean of lighter feeling, and are but partially recognized by themselves, till, like the electric shock, which compels the sea-revel to his most startling secrets, some mighty event, searching the depths of their being, brings them to their surface, to astonish their possessors. Many a man has mouldered into dust, whose life has been shaped by motives which, clothed in words, would have at first appeared strangers to him, but which he would soon come to recognize as a part of himself."
The Rio Grande Deer.—Largest on Record.—Among the many amusing stories of the camp told by Col. Thrope, (Tom Owen the Bee Hunter), is one, which he prefaces by saying that there are wandering over the prairies in the vicinity of our camp on the Rio Grande, a large number of the finest horned cattle in the world. "Our Volunteers," wishing for a fresh steak, would make some of them occasionally bite the dust. An order came that no more "killing beef" must take place, and no more beef was killed. Scouting parties now went out for venison, some good shots were fortunate enough to kill one. It was dragged into camp and duly divided up among the knowing ones of the regiment. When day-light appeared, suspicions got out that a beef had been killed; this was stoutly denied, and the report was contradicted by the assertion that a deer had been killed, weighing over eight hundred pounds. This caused universal surprise, especially among certain officers, who demanded to see the horns. After a great deal of delay they were produced, and examined by a court martial, who solemnly decided, that the venison of the Rio Grande had horns perfectly smooth, and resembling those of the ox species in other parts of the world.

Disinterested Testimony.
Mr. STILLMAN.—The following letters, we believe to be perfectly disinterested, for they were entirely unsolicited on our part, and written merely as a matter of business. There is seldom an arrival of the mail, but similar letters are received, and if justified in incurring the expense, we might fill the "SIGNAL" with them.
We ask as a matter of duty to ourselves as well as to our friends, that anyone whose eyes may chance to fall upon this, by reading the following letters slowly, pause frequently, think seriously, and then act accordingly.
Kaysburg, Pike Co., Ill., March 13, 1846.
Messrs. D. Hart & Co.—Gentlemen: The Plaster and Pills you left with me to sell, about 3 weeks since, are all sold, with the exception of a few boxes, and these few will probably be all gone before I can get a new supply from you. I know not that you can supply me still, as you left your card when I wrote, hoping you may find some way to send me a large lot soon.
The "PERSIAN PILLS" have become very popular, and have proved wonderfully efficacious in curing lingering complaints and inveterate diseases of almost all kinds.
The "HEBREW PLASTER" is undergoing a trial and is doing good. I hear of no complaint from any source in regard to it. At the time you left these medicines, I thought it very doubtful if I sold any, and therefore took but few. The people had so often been imposed upon by medicines, that I did not believe I should be justified in making any effort to sell them. I was mistaken. I find these medicines are good, and I feel it a duty to recommend them, and I wish you to send me, if possible, six dozen boxes of "PERSIAN PILLS" and some of the "HEBREW PLASTER," and oblige.
Yours truly,
SAM'L H. MESMITH.
Galesburg, Ill., Feb. 6, 1846.
Messrs. D. Hart & Co.—Gentlemen: I have sold all but nine boxes of your justly celebrated "HEBREW PLASTER," and I have an order for two dozen boxes more, which I cannot fill until you forward me a supply. Please send me a large supply as soon as possible, for this Plaster is much thought of in this region, and the demand for it is steadily increasing. The more it is known the greater the demand.
Yours truly,
J. A. BARROTT.
Danville, Ill., Feb. 18, 1846.
Messrs. D. Hart & Co.—Gentlemen: We are entirely out of the "JEW DAVID'S" or "HEBREW PLASTER" not having received any since you were here about six weeks since. It would be well to send us some (say 4 dozen boxes) soon. We have now on our shelves the sale of your "HEBREW PLASTER" and "PERSIAN PILLS" two years, and find their sales rapidly increasing, especially in this part of the State.
Respectfully your friends,
E. F. PALMER & CO.
Galesburg, Knox Co., Ill., Feb. 5, 1846.
Messrs. D. Hart & Co.—Gentlemen: The large lot of "HEBREW PLASTER" and "PERSIAN PILLS" you left with me on sale, is nearly all gone. There are but a few boxes left of either Pills or Plaster. They sell well and give good satisfaction. If you would like to have me send you some money, write to that effect. Inclosed I send you the amount due you upon Mr. Penney's receipt for medicines. I would like to have you send me a good supply of the Pills and Plaster immediately.
Yours truly,
J. B. COLTON.
By the above extracts an idea may be obtained, somewhat correct too, of the character of the "HEBREW PLASTER" and "PERSIAN PILLS," also the estimate in which they are held by those who best know them. We venture to say, and this too after mature reflection and having the very means for judging correctly, that no medicines are more popular, and give so general satisfaction as these. Why is this? Simply because they do just what they promise. Call upon our agents and obtain a valuable pamphlet and learn what they do promise, and if suffering with any disease for which either are recommended, try them and enjoy the blessings of health which result from their use.
Beware of Counterfeits. We have lately found traces of which, for a long time we have feared that some unprincipled rascal, lured by the sordid motive of gain, and the great popularity of the "HEBREW PLASTER" and "PERSIAN PILLS," would set at naught the laws of both God and man, and counterfeit them. We would caution the public not to purchase the above medicines of any but those who are supplied by D. Hart & Co., sole agents for the west.
Price of Plaster, 50 cts. per box containing sufficient to spread 8 ft. square.
Price of Pills, 25 cts. per box containing 30 to 35 pills.

DR. SPENCER'S VEGETABLE PILLS
And Vegetable Tonic and Restorative Bitter.
ARE acknowledged by the hundreds and thousands who are using them, to be not only the most mild and pleasant in their operation, but the most perfectly innocent, safe, and efficient medicines ever offered to the public. Those who have made a trial of these pills and bitters, never afterwards feel willing to be without them, which is sufficient proof of their good qualities.
In the South, where bilious disorders are so prevalent, these medicines annually save thousands of lives. They are known wherever the medical art is practised, abroad as well as at home; but the South especially has been the grand field of their triumph, and though frequent attempts have been made to supersede them, by persons whose experience should have restrained them from tampering with human life, Spencer's pills remain as heretofore, the popular medicine of the south and west. It seems, indeed, as if every attempt at rivalry only served to enhance their reputation, to increase the vast demand which has compelled the proprietor to double the capacity of his establishment, in order to afford the requisite supply. True science, however ignorant and capricious may assail its inventors, will carry the day at last; and for this reason the medicines of Dr. Spencer, being the result of philosophical research and universally acknowledged medical skill, will maintain their position in the public favor, as long as disease exists, and health is considered a blessing.
In all diseases of the liver, stomach, and intestines, Spencer's pills and bitters are the only reliable preparation. They cleanse the system of its impurities, give strength and tone to all the machinery of digestion, promote healthy secretions, purify the blood, cure dyspepsia and bilious complaints of every form and character, and, as a mild yet searching cathartic, these pills are admitted by the profession to have no competitor in the whole range of medical science.
Pills 25 cts. per box; Bitters $1 per bottle.
Sold by Brown & Co., Joliet; and W. S. MYERS, Lockport.
TOOTH ACHE
DR. LACOURT'S Tonic Elixir is a sure and speedy cure for the most distressing complaint that can afflict the human frame. No person who has decayed teeth should be without this remedy. Some have supposed the toothache incurable without extraction. This is, however, a mistake. The experience of the thousands who have given this remedy a trial, and who have declared if it cost $10 per vial, they would not be without it, proves conclusively that extraction is not necessary, and that the toothache can be cured, and the teeth saved for useful purposes. Let those afflicted try, and satisfy themselves. It costs but 50 cents per vial, with all necessary directions for use.
The public may rest assured there is no danger in the application of this remedy.
Sold by Brown & Co. Joliet; and W. S. MYERS, Lockport.
DR. HULL'S VEGETABLE FEVER AND AGUE AND ANTI FEVER PILLS.
"Prove all things and hold fast to that which is good."—PAUL.
NONE need suffer from that distressing complaint, Chills and Fever, or Fever and Ague, for it is speedily and permanently cured by Dr. Hull's celebrated Anti-Fever Pills. They never fail to cure the chills and fever the first day when taken according to directions, and do not sick in the stomach, nor operate upon the bowels. Thousands of certificates have been presented to the proprietor by planters of the first respectability, physicians of eminence, and others who have used them, which might be given, but let the following from Judge Forrest, a gentleman of the first respectability, in Jefferson Co., Ala., suffice.
Jefferson county, Ala., Feb. 4, 1845.
I certify that in the summer of 1843, I had a severe attack of Fever and Ague, and was for some time under the treatment of a physician, but received no benefit from his prescriptions; my disease continued to increase in frequency and severity of its attacks. I at last had recourse to Dr. Hull's Fever and Ague, and Anti-Fever Pills, and in using half a box was entirely cured, and have remained in good health ever since.
I afterwards had in my family several cases of Fever and Ague, and have in every instance made use of Hull's Pills, which have always immediately effected a cure.
Dr. Hull's Pills require no puffing where they are known, and where they are not, a single trial is sufficient to insure their adoption. A fresh supply just received and for by Brown & Co., Joliet, and W. S. MYERS, Lockport.
WORM LOZENGES
Children will cry for Dr. Hull's Worm Lozenges. Only read what this medicine has done.
Yorkville, Gibson Co., Tenn. Dec. 21, 1843.
Dr. C. E. Hull.—Some months since your agent left with me for sale, what he considered a large supply of your Worm Lozenges, but I have sold all out, and could have sold three times as many more, had I been supplied to that amount. I hope you will instruct your agent to leave a much greater supply when he comes this way again. Their use in my family has been of great benefit. Edward McCutcheon, Esq. gave some to a child four years old, and the child, who was away between thirty and forty years, was pronounced incurable, and said it would die, but the child was cured by using Dr. Hull's Worm Lozenges.
Yours truly,
